

SPECIFICATION:

Abstract: Replace with the following -

A sewing needle having an eye portion with ends pinched together for retaining a small braid sized section of hair. The hair section is placed through the eye of the needle and tugged toward the pinched end of the eye to secure the hair section while sewing. This particular feature mechanically binds the hair section from being removed accidentally while looping hair.